The Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act utilizes the model code from the Canadian Standards Association(CSA). The code was developed by business, consumers, academics and government under the auspices of the Canadian Standards Association. It lists 10 principles of fair information practices, which form ground rules for the collection, use and disclosure of personal information. These principles give individuals control over how their personal information is handled in the private sector. An organization is responsible for the protection of personal information and the fair handling of it at all times, throughout the organization and in dealings with third parties. Care in collecting, using and disclosing personal information is essential to continued consumer confidence and good will.

Webberstop.com takes our Privacy code seriously, which is based on the below 10 principles:

1. Accountability

Webberstop.com is responsible for information under our control. We have assigned an individual who is accountable for our organization's compliance to the Privacy Principles set out by the Personal Information Protection and Electronic Documents Act.

2. Identifying purposes

Whenever we collect information from a customer or potential customer we identify the purpose for which the information will be used.

3. Consent

Consent and knowledge of the individual is required before we collect or disclose any personal information, except in cases where it is inappropriate.

4. Limiting collection

We only collect information that is necessary for the purpose identified by our organization.

5. Limiting use, disclosure, and retention

Just as Webberstop.com takes steps to limit the types of information we collect from you, we carefully regulate how we handle your personal information. We do not use your information for purposes other than those to which you have consented, or as required by law (for example in a legal investigation).

Should Webberstop.com require the services of third parties to handle your information, we will require them to adhere to privacy procedures that will keep your information confidential.

These third parties will be given only the information necessary for performing their information-handling services. Webberstop.com does not sell or trade personal information for commercial purposes. Webberstop.com is committed to retaining your personal information only as long as is necessary for the purposes for which it was collected. Webberstop.com is also committed to deleting or destroying the records containing that information when they are no longer required; this will be done in ways that will ensure your continued privacy.

6. Accuracy

We are committed to ensuring that our records of your personal information are accurate, complete, and up-to-date. Although it is your responsibility to inform Webberstop.com of any relevant changes in your personal information, we will take steps to ensure that you are able from time to time to verify the information in your file.

7. Safeguards

Webberstop.com uses appropriate safeguards to protect the privacy of your personal information. These safeguards are designed to prevent unauthorized access, disclosure, copying, use, or modification. Your records are accessible only to staff who have been given the authority to access them and only as is necessary to provide services to you.

8. Openness

So that you can be confident that Webberstop.com is handling your personal information appropriately, Webberstop.com will make information about its policies and practices concerning management of personal information readily available to you. As such, Webberstop.com lists our policies on our website for viewing 24 hours a day, 7 days a week for reading by all.

9. Individual access

If at any time you have a question about our records containing your personal information, we will do our best to answer it. You have the right to be told about the kind of personal information Webberstop.com maintains, how it is used, and with whom it is shared. You are entitled to challenge the factual accuracy as well as the completeness and relevance of our records. Incorrect information will be promptly corrected or, if necessary, deleted.
